2015 AASE/WAESPAA Joint National Conference

Professor James M. Kauffman

James M. Kauffman is Professor Emeritus of Education at the University of Virginia. His awards include the 2006 award of the Society for Applied Behaviour Analysis for Presentation of Behaviour Analysis in the Mass Media and the 2011 Distinguished Alumni Award from the School of Education of the University of Kansas. His primary interests are emotional and behavioural disorders, learning disabilities, and history and policy in special education.

Keynote Speakers

Dr George Sugai

Currently at the University of Connecticut, Dr Sugai and colleagues have established the Center for Behavioral Education and Research (www.cber.org) in the Neag School of Education to improve academic and social behaviour outcomes for students in schools by engaging in the systematic study of educational issues and interventions, and dissemination to pre-service and in-service school personnel.

Associate Professor Michael Arthur-Kelly

Michael’s research into professional practice in special and inclusive education has focused on the needs of individuals with multiple and severe disability. Communication intervention and behaviour support are two main strands of this research, informed by behaviour state assessment. The needs of these people are very high and the social justice aspects of their situation are highly significant.

Nick Burnett

Nick is the Managing Director of Nick Burnett CCP, Managing Consultant in Queensland with Growth Coaching International, Director of Team Teach Asia-Pacific, and the Asia-Pacific Representative of Northampton Centre for Learning Behaviour. He has written for a wide range of publications, including authoring books on Leadership and Special Education Provision, and Working Restoratively in Special Education.
